ALAMO COMING TO FRONT

Tributary to Tonopah is a mining property that is coming into the limelight. It is that of the Alamo Mining company, control of which is owned by W. O. Dresser, the pioneer furniture dealer of this city.

A visit was paid to the property a few days ago by James J. McQuillan, the postmaster, who has had an experience in mining in Nevada extending over a greater period of years than he likes to confess to. Mr. McQuillan said to the Bonanza:

"On a recent trip I made an inspection of the Alamo group of six claims, situated ten miles northwest of Freiberg, Nye county. I found a vein, the pay streak of which is not less than two feet in width at any point and from there up to four feet or more. It is walled by lime and porphyry. The vein is nicely gouged by tale.

"The property is still in the prospect stage, but there is a large amount of ore on the dump. There were 160 sacks filled with the best grade at the time of my visit, and a quantity was on the dump and not sacked, all of which would seem to me to pay liberally to ship to a smelter.

"The chief values, so far as I have been able to ascertain, are in silver and lead, but there are also very encouraging gold contents. A tunnel is being run end on with the vein and it is making foot for foot.

The country becomes so nearly vertical a short distance in that Mr. Dresser will have nine hundred feet of backs with six hundred feet of tunnel.

"The vein shows every indication of permanency. There have been cross leads already encountered. I think the mountain is one of the most heavily mineralized in that portion of the state. A pleasing feature of the ore is that it is practically self-fluxing, carrying lime, iron, sulphur and lead with the noble values, there being just enough silica to satisfy the requirements of the smelter people."

Mr. Dresser, who visited the property even later than Mr. McQuillan, said: "I have purchased additional stock in the Alamo and now own more than a three-fifths interest. I let a contract to extend the tunnel an additional 200 feet. Thus far there have been no raises run nor any lateral work done, nor will be until spring, when I expect to ship ten tons daily as a starter. Pioche will be the shipping point. The road is nearly level and a caterpillar truck can come clear up to the dump.

"We have plenty of water and the hills are heavily timbered. I have practically concluded a contract with Campbell & Kelly of this city for a five drill compressor and other mining machinery, to be delivered in the early spring."

TRUSTWORTHY FIRM

Now that silver is booming and the ghost of labor troubles has been banished, everybody is buying mining stocks nowadays, and as a sequel to transaction, just as many people are selling and taking profits. It looks like a very profitable year for investors in mining securities, particularly in Tonopah stocks. R. Fred Brown's house is a most trustworthy one. It has a seat on the San Francisco stock exchange. Call him up at any time for confidential advice or purchasing or selling any listed security. The public is invited to visit the board room and get the first flashes over the wire from both the coast and eastern exchanges.

THE FIRST BROKER

At a time when there was an utter lack of interest in Tonopah securities, because experts had told the people that the values didn't go this way and stopped that way, when faults were an evil and slips were an abomination, H. E. Epstine had the temerity to open a brokerage office in this camp. It was a tiny little office and he employed no help, but he blazed the trail and now his two telephones keep up a continuous jingling. This is conclusive evidence that it paid to not only introduce the game, but to stay with it. Owing to its being the pioneer in the business, the House of Epstine has a distinct advantage. It has always treated its patrons on the square and has endeavored to protect the interests of all customers. The result has been the building up of a big business.

HOUSE OF QUALITY

"A place of conviviality and good fellowship" is the accustomed way of speaking of the Bank Buffet, perhaps the most artistically arranged of any third emporium in the state. The place reflects the personality of its genial and whole-souled proprietor, Walter J. Drysdale. His white aproned men are alike courteous and competent. For its lunches as well as its choice liquid refreshments the place is deservedly popular and widely known. Mr. Drysdale is a Nevada boy. He was part owner in the Bank for a number of years before succeeding to full command, recently taking into partnership Carlton D. Wilson, who is another of the popular young men of the camp.

GOODS GUARANTEED

The products handled by the Central Market bear the stamp of a government inspector. It is impossible to find any meat in the establishment that is not guaranteed for its quality by the United States. This firm has been in existence for many years in Tonopah and is most capably managed. Proof of this is found in its constantly increasing patronage. It is a pleasure to deal with people who take pains to suit your needs and comply with your wishes. The company has a complete and capacious cold storage department, where the supplies are kept at carefully regulated temperature in order to assure their freshness when served. Poultry of all kinds is kept constantly in stock.
